Flip Camera Case Study

Director: Paul Szymendera
Secretary: Carol Montanari

How can a "FLIP Camera" enhance student participation and invite interactive lesson design?

Consider the ways video footage can add a new dimension to lesson design and enhance creativity in your classroom.

- How does the Flip Camera work?
- How might you use the Flip Camera to help students learn?
- Use various software applications to edit the video clips.
- Record video clips and use them in a presentation or podcast.
- Motivate students and facilitate creativity in LOTE, music, ELA, science, history, art, storytelling, portfolio design and much more!

Here is the catch...all participants are expected to take the course listed below to be involved in this case study – so check your calendar!!

Steps for Participation

1. Apply for the case study by November 20, 2008.
2. When notified you are part of the case study group, register for the course on Ascriptica.
3. Attend Flip Camera for the Classroom class (1 hour in-service Tuesday November 25) to receive the camera and instructions for use with the camera.
4. Participate in "program evaluation" discussions at Teacher Center Policy Board meetings throughout the school year.
5. Share "student work" with the Teacher Center at Policy Board meetings throughout the school year. (1/7/09, 3/4/09)

This is a first come first served application process until we reach our quota for this case study.
